

Table of Contents

Dedication
Author Biography
Acknowledgments

Introduction

Section I. Secrets about Food and People

Chapter 1. Nutrition Knowledge that Matters
Chapter 2. Classified World War II Secrets
Chapter 3. If it Sounds Good, it Tastes Good

Section II. Tools for Targeting

Chapter 4. Profiling the Perfect Consumer
Chapter 5. Mental Maps that Lead to Consumer Insights
Chapter 6. Targeting Nutritional Gatekeepers

Section III. The Health of Nations

Chapter 7. The De-Marketing of Obesity
Chapter 8. Why Five-a-Day Programs Often Fail
Chapter 9. Winning the Biotechnology Battle
Chapter 10. Managing Consumer Reactions to Food Crises

Section IV. Labeling that Actually Works

Chapter 11. Leveraging FDA Health Claims
Chapter 12. Health Claims -- When Less Equals More

Section V. Marketing Nutrition

Chapter 13. Introducing Unfamiliar Foods to Unfamiliar Lands
Chapter 14. Global Best Practices

Section VI. Conclusion

Chapter 15. Looking Backward and Speeding Forward

References

Index